“ Dad, I'm so thankful for the 15 years we spent together. All the countless hours of doing water slides and space walks and literally being zombies because we were all so tired. I loved all the deer that you would bring home and making ourselves sick from eating fried back strap. You were an incredibly strong yet very sensitive man. You were simple and that's okay. You were ours and that's all that mattered to any of us. You loved us unconditionally even when we didn't deserve it sometimes. You are finally pain free and I am forever grateful God for that. Till we meet again. I'll see you there. I love you.

“ My sweet loving husband, I still just can't wrap mind around the fact that you are truly gone. I see and feel you everywhere. I hear you call me Baby girl Baby girl it that silly way that only you could do. You told me every day how much you loved me and told me I was gorgeous or beautiful even when I looked a mess. You loved big and I will love and miss you all the days of my life. You will forever be my Pookey Pooh. Know that we see the signs of you all around us. You lived for our grandbabies and I promise we will keep your memory alive in them. Until we are united for eternity, Love you always and forever, Your Baby Girl

“ Nobody could make ribs like Rod. My mama was always jealous he could get me to eat foods I wouldn't touch if she cooked them. I bet they're feasting together as I type this. So many hugs and prayers for y'all, Tina. Praying our Heavenly Father wraps you, Zach, his girls, and all of his friends and family in peace and comfort for all of the days ahead. We love you.

“ I will miss you little brother. I loved you so much but I know you are finally at peace. You won't hurt anymore. I know you are in heaven with a brand new body and free of pain. Probably trying to get the next buck in the beautiful woods of heaven. Love and miss you until we meet again in heaven
